

Bank of America is pleased to support ED RUSCHA / NOW THEN at the Museum of Modern Art (MoMA), in New York City. As Lead Corporate Sponsor of the exhibition, Bank of America looks forward to bringing this first New York retrospective of Ed Ruscha's expansive oeuvre to the public, sharing his vast contributions to postwar American art.

"Ruscha's influence on American midcentury art is substantial," said Jose Tavares, New York City president, Bank of America. "Bank of America is excited to support MoMA in showcasing a tremendous body of work in a range of mediums, including painting, drawing, photography film, and books, as well as a large-scale installation."

A longtime partner of The Museum of Modern Art, Bank of America was the lead opening partner of the newly expanded MoMA in 2019 as well as an opening exhibition, Surrounds: 11 Installations presented throughout the entire sixth floor of the Museum. Most recently, Bank of America sponsored Joseph E. Yoakum: What I Saw, the first major museum exhibition of the artist's work in over 25 years, charting the development of his singular artistic style and including the idiosyncratic, poetic landscape drawings for which he is best known.

In addition to our partnership with MoMA, our programs in 2022 and 2023 alone include sponsorship of more than 18 exhibitions at nonprofit museums, including Diego Rivera's America at SFMOMA, Edward Hopper's New York at the Whitney Museum of American Art, New York City; Cezanne at the Art Institute of Chicago and Chagall. World in Turmoil at Schirn Kunsthalle, Frankfurt, to name only a few. Through the Art in Our Communities program we continue to lend complete exhibitions of artworks from our collection including Vision and Spirit: African American Art, an exhibition of prints, drawings, photographs, sculpture and mixed-media opening at The African American Museum in Philadelphia (AAMP) beginning in October 2022. And we will continue to fund the restoration of important artworks through the Bank of America Art Conservation Project which to date has provided funding for more than 200 projects across 39 countries.

Bank of America is proud to be one of the leading corporate supporters of arts around the world. The arts uplift our communities by providing space for diverse expression, and in turn, have a positive impact on the lives of our clients and employees. Our arts program supports a wide range of local and global nonprofit institutions as they work to help us explore the creativity, complexity and collaborative spirit of the world around us.
