

After 3 years of sponsoring compelling programs at MoMA Allianz is proud to partner with The Museum of Modern Art and MoMA PS1 to make possible a series of Design and Innovation programs through 2021.

Allianz has always believed that people should live with more courage than fear, traversing life with a sense of optimism and opportunism that encourages us to take risks. Both as an organisation and as individuals we are compelled to answer the question of how we can secure the future. By exploring new content, cultural and social territories, together in partnership with MoMA we can energize new audiences to participate in the development of the Allianz brand and help us address the key existential questions of today.

Through the celebration of the work of visionary architects and the examination of design through new lenses we will expand our commitment to exploring scenarios for a better, more sustainable and inclusive tomorrow. Our engagement with the art of today reflects this belief, and we are honored to support exhibitions by architects and designers that are pushing the boundaries of modern art.

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read "Dr. Deuringer", with a stylized flourish at the end.

Dr Christian Deuringer
Director of Global Brand Management